Mr. Timothy,

There being something pretty extraordinary mentioned in the inclosed, of which I am not so able to give a particular account as my friend supposes, I beg you'll give it a place in your next and oblige

Your constant Reader, &c.

Copy of a Letter from a Gentleman in Charles-Town, to his Friend in the Country, dated Nov. 4, 1754.

SIR,

THE time I employed in my journey to Georgia was so short, and I all along so hurried, that you will profit little by my promise to give you (at my return) some account of my observations; for I had very few opportunities of making any.

The hospitality and good nature of the people in that part of this country thro' which I passed, far exceeded what I expected. As you know the people, I shall only observe, that I never met with such kind treatment in any of my other travels.

When I got into Georgia, I was disappointed every where; so much, that I shall wave saying more of it now, than that it would have been no great loss to the nation, had certain pamphlet writers and printers been h—g'd twenty years ago. It may be a good country in time, but, in my opinion, it can never, never come up to Carolina. I observed there indeed, a general face of chearfulness, especially upon the near prospect of the arrival of their governor; and that was all I had any pleasure in observing. This gentleman arriv'd at Savannah the day after I left it, and was received. I am told, with unusual Marks of Respect and Joy: They have great expectations from his administration, and I dare say will not be deceiv'd: I could wish to have stay'd there a day or two longer, on purpose to have given you some particular account of his reception. &c.

While I was there, I heard, that on the 25th of September last, in the parish of St. John in Berkley county, somewhere between the two bridges called Biggin and Watboo, there had appear'd an unusual phœnomenon, viz. a terrible monster having fourteen heads of different sizes; that it made a terrible bellowing noise, and threatened ruin to some inhabitants thereabout; that each head was covered, some with fifty, some seventy, and some fewer horns; and that one head in particular appear'd to have its horns tipt with gold; that this monster was said to have taken its way towards Charles-Town, and some philosophers in that parish were of opinion, from their observation of its first appearance, that it would be again seen in Charles Town on the 16th or 17th days of October, or at least, its roarings of destruction then heard. This piece of news greatly surprised me, especially as it was told me by some grave sober men, and I could not by any means account for it, or judge whether it was truth or a fiction, as, by the circumstance of time, if such a monster did appear, it must have been while I was at the southward: Upon inquiry on my arrival in town, I don't find that any unusual noise was at that time or since heard in Charles Town, which makes me conclude, that those philosophers either were mistaken, or the monster gone to sleep. You, doubtless, are able to inform me particularly of this strange piece of news; and I beg you'll do it quickly, for I long to get rid of my doubts.

On my return, I visited your old friends Mr. C—, Capt. B—, and Mr. J——: They honoured your recommendations; and I shall never forget the civilities I receiv'd from each: I was obliged to the latter for a horse to bring me to town, yours having tired before I reach'd his plantation. Pray favour me with a line soon, and believe me to be

Yours sincerely, J. B.

Mr. Timothy,

YOUR inserting the following lines in your paper, will much oblige Your humble Servant,

EUGENIUS.

Dear nymph! in vain has Ramsay shewn his art,
His pencil feebly paints the meaner part;
The beauty which doth captivate mankind,
Is your most charming—noble turn of mind.
Who like you, can gently touch the key?
Or, like your voice, draw out such melody?
How much do all admire to see you walk?
But th'heav'n is surely laid that hears you talk.

CHARLES-TOWN, November 14.

Sunday last being His Majesty's Birth-Day, the Cannon was fired from the Ferra and Man of War as usual, but other Rejoicings were put off till Monday, when the Governor, attended by his Council and other public Officers, went down to Granville's Bastion, and drank His Majesty's Health, under the Discharge of the Cannon there and three Vollies from a Detachment of the Independent Companies: From thence His Excellency went to the Parade, and reviewed the Charles Town Regiment, who performed their Exercises, &c. to Admiration: And in the Evening, His Excellency gave an elegant Entertainment at Gordon's, and a Ball to the Ladies which lasted 'till the next Morning.
